

Fruit festival

Dário

Morning

Today I'm at the fruit festival, a fun festival what is celebrated in Holland and in Portugal. There is a big feast of fruit (of course) and the people are dressed with fruit costumes, and I'm dressed as a banana. There is a parade like at the Carnaval in Holland and everybody is looking forward to it.

Midday

The parade is almost beginning! I'm so excited because I'm marching in front of the parade. Many people are looking to the parade and its one of the most important things of the festival. After the parade there's a big dinner with tasty food. I'm looking forward to it!

Afternoon

The dinner is open! Everybody is walking to the tables and the food is delicious! Of course there is fruit (it is a fruit festival). After the dinner there is a competition for the most creative outfit. It is a very cool festival and i've taken some pictures. Bye!

Me

The winner

