

Is everybody invited to the party?

The team

You work in a task force. It is your task to come with a set of recommendations on revision/modernisation of local or national traditions. Your team mates from the other country are your sounding board. You need their feedback because it is undoable to judge your own traditions unbiased.

Procedure

Evaluate (food) traditions or customs in your country. Some of these habits might not be ideal for certain creatures. Tell each other about the different kinds of traditions or customs in your country or region and ask for honest opinions of your international counterparts. Think about the food you eat, the sports you watch, the stuff you drink, etc. In what way can you adjust the tradition to modern times not demolishing the idea of the tradition?

Describe the tradition in the other country and your opinion towards it.

Evaluate the outcome and improve, reflect on your personal input and groupwork.

Thoughts

Traditions stay the same while society changes. Traditions that are not subject to change disappear.

“Just because something is traditional is no reason to do it, of course.”

- Lemony Snicket

school 1
task force member

school 2
task force member

school 1
task force member

school 2
task force member

Outcome/aim

Make an invitation for the celebration in the new form of the old tradition.